READY FOR THE SUMMER SEASON

NEARLY ALL COTTAGES OPEN AT LAKE MARGRETHE.

Great Demand for Cottages and Building Lots.

Nearly all the cottages at Lake Margrethe are open for the season and the place is beginning to take on an air of social activity. Practically all the local cottage owners have moved to the lake and those from out of the city are arriving, almost every train bringing in a number.

Among those from out of the city that have arrived are the following: Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Michelson, A. E. Michelson and family and Master Frederic Van Paria, Frank Michelson and family, all of Detroit; Mrs. W. H. Wolff and daughter, Miss Marjorie, and son Herbert, of Chicago, the latter driving thru in his car from Southbend in one day, about 300 miles; Carl Michelson and daughter Miss Francis Jane and a girl friend of Mason, Mrs. Wm. Powell off the road for the summer. Mr. Powell was here early in the season, but returned to work until September.

A. E. Michelson and family are occupying the Blair cottage.

Oscar Hanson and family have rented the Insley cottage for the summer.

W. E. Herron and family have rented the J. W. Garrison cottage.

E. W. Behlke and family are occupying the Fournier cottage.

Fred Welsh and family will occupy the Bates cottage.

E. A. Mason will occupy the Free-land cottage.

Several have purchased lots recently and by another season will have new cottages. Among them are Dr. C. A. Canfield, Fred Welsh, E. A. Mason, E. W. Behlke and Miss Jennie Ingle. The Marius Hanson and Dr. Keyport new cottages are nearly finished and will probably be ready for occupancy within a couple of weeks.

YOUNG LIFE ENDED.

Miss Renda L. Failing, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace H. Failing passed away at Mercy hospital at 5:40 o'clock, Saturday morning after a lingering illness. The young girl had never been in perfect health.

For some years back she had been ailing with a goitre, and about six weeks ago she was taken suddenly ill with a severe attack of appendicitis. An operation was performed at Mercy hospital at the time, but it was too late, as the appendix had burst. But she was unable to withstand the effects of the disease and gradually failed until her death. Altho she was a pupil in the Grayling school, she had not been in attendance for over a year; at that time the local physicians requested that she be taken out of school on account of her health.

Miss Renda was born in Grayling and had almost reached the age of 17. She was a very quiet girl and altho ailing was always cheerful in her manner. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carl Babbitt, a sister of the deceased. It was attended by a number of friends, and Rev. C. E. Doty conducted the service. He was assisted by a choir of four young ladies who sang several hymns very sweetly. The young ladies were members of the Sunday school class of the Michelson Memorial church, of which class Miss Renda was also a member. Interment was made at Elmwood cemetery.

Besides her parents who are left to mourn, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Carl Babbitt and Miss Margaret Failing, at home and four brothers, Otto Failing of Detroit, and Peter, Rolla and Horace at home. Otto Failing of Detroit, and Mrs. P. M. Failing the latter the mother of Mr. Horace Failing came to be in attendance at the funeral.

MRS. KECHITTIGO GRANTED PENSION.

Mrs. Thomas KeChittigo has been granted a pension and will receive $30.00 per month and back pension amounting to over $650. This good news was received by wire from Congressman Currie Saturday last.

Friends of Mrs. KeChittigo had been trying for a long time to get the government to grant her a pension but there were many things that complicated the claim and there seemed to be but little hope of success.

A few months ago Mrs. Claud Gilson and Mrs. James Wingard of this city met a sister of Congressman Currie on a train and incidentally told her of the situation with respect to Mrs. KeChittigo, and that they despaired of all hope of securing a pension for her. Miss Currie reported the matter to her brother and the latter, after many hearings with the commissioner of pensions, secured the allowance of the claim. A lengthy article, reminiscences by Thos. KeChittigo appearing in the Avalanche a number of years ago was part of the evidence submitted by Congressman Currie to the pension department in order to get the claim allowed.

Since the death of her husband Mrs. KeChittigo has been a hard working woman and has none too much of this world's goods and the pension aid that will now come to her of $30.00 per month, besides the nice sum she will receive as back pay will materially aid her and add to her comfort in her declining years.

RIGHT WAY TO PUT IN INNER TUBES.

Unexpected outbursts from inner tubes originate from sins of omission and commission. By emphasizing the more glaring ones the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Company believes it can save the motorist dollars that would otherwise be wasted. Haste in replacing punctured or blown out tubes is responsible for a multitude of these sins. The right way to place a tube into a casing is to first partly inflate it. Then it should be applied carefully, the side bearing the stem always being kept in sight. When it is in the casing it should be tacked carefully and the fingers forced all around the tire to make sure the talc has been evenly distributed. A tube never should be inserted unless being partially inflated.

In pumping a tube before insertion most motorists allow it to rest on the ground or on the floor of garage. This practice is wrong. It allows the tube to pick up particles of sand, cinders and oil which create friction and eventually tiny holes.

The right way is to place the tube over the left shoulder and pump with the right hand. Thus no portion of the tube will be allowed to touch the road or pavement. When tube is well rounded with air and free from wrinkles it is ready for insertion in the casing, and then should be pumped to the prescribed pressure.

D. & M. PLANS TO HELP DEVELOP ITS TRADE TERRITORY.

New Manager Has Many Changes in View for Improvement in Service.

The insignia of the mud turtle, which has long been the identifying mark of freight and passenger cars of the Detroit & Mackinac railroad, is disappearing from view rapidly. Every time a car or locomotive goes into a shop for repainting it comes out minus the "turtle," which has been used for advertising purposes by the railroad ever since it was built. The change is one of the ideas of the new general manager of the road, H. K. McHarg, Jr.

It is his idea that a railroad must be of the highest possible service to the community which it traverses if it is to be made to pay dividends, and he has many plans under way for improving that service.

The general office of the road, for many years maintained at Detroit, a hundred miles from the D. & M.'s southern terminal, have been removed to East Tawas, and Mr. McHarg is "right on the job at these offices or elsewhere on the line all of the time. The company's shops at that city are being enlarged and modernized, new coal loading apparatus is being installed and it is possible that a new station, which will also house the general offices of the company, will be built in the near future.

A new train schedule is being made out and will go into effect in a few days which will make all trains practically "daylight" trains, doing away with the necessity for sleeper service.

In addition to plans for building up its business from a strictly "railroad" point of view, Mr. McHarg is also taking an interest in the general development of the territory which his road serves, and the road is a liberal contributor to the support of the Northeastern Michigan Development bureau, because he recognizes its service in developing the territory which provides the road with business.

TOWNSHIP HIGHWAY COMMISSIONERS TAKE NOTICE.

The law provides that notices must be published and also posted warning people that they must cut their noxious weeds, and tells when it must be done. The time is here and should be attended to at once. A letter or phone call to this office asking us to publish the notice is all that is necessary. We will make it up in the statutory form. A severe penalty is provided for the neglect of any highway commissioner failing to attend to this duty.

GRANGERS TAKE NOTICE.

All Grange members are hereby notified that all dues paid before July 1st will be taxed, 40c a quarter year. Those neglecting to pay before July 1st will be taxed 50c a quarter.

After January 1st, 1921, all members must pay 50c quarterly.

BOY SCOUTS OF TOLEDO SPEND DAY IN GRAYLING.

Leave Here on 300 Mile Canoe Trip Down AuSable River.

Alfred Hughes received a message Monday morning from an uncle in Toledo, who is at the head of the Boy Scouts of that city, saying that a troop of scouts would arrive here Monday morning and for him to arrange for lodging for them. There were 13 of the boys with Mr. Paul E. Samson in charge. They are known in Toledo as the Gimogash Tribe of boy scouts. Mr. Hughes turned his home over to them and the boys were soon comfortable and happy. Some of our citizens gave them an auto trip to the places of interest about the city, which of course included the trout fish hatchery. This latter place was a revelation to them as many had never seen trout before. Of course in the hatchery ponds the fish are very tame and will frequently jump into a pan containing food. One of the young men wanted to know where he could get a pan like it, saying he wanted to use it on their trip down the river. No doubt there were some disappointments in store for that scout.

At noon the boys were luncheon guests of the Knights of Columbus and also for lodging that night. They were guests of Mr. R. Hanson for evening dinner. They left at an early hour next morning in six canoes for a three week's trip down the AuSable river where they expect to enjoy all the pleasant out-door features this magnificent river affords.

All expenses of their trip are paid by the council of Toledo, some kind of a vacation being given the boys each year. Last year they were given a 2,500 mile auto trip to the Atlantic coast and return.

The young men were a happy lot and every one a gentleman. They were delighted with the manner in which they were entertained in Grayling and speak very highly of the treatment accorded them by our citizens.

MICHELSON MEMORIAL CHURCH

Services next Sunday at ten-thirty with sermon and music. The evening services have been taken up until the first of September so the morning service should receive the attention of all.

The Sunday School hour has been changed for the summer to nine forty-five a. m. The hour is early but cool and refreshing.

The Sunday music reserves special mention and if any wish to hear something good, find the way next Sunday morning.

July will be the vacation time for the pastor of the church.

BEEF GOULASH.

This may be made from the chuck. Cut the beef into cubes or slices and sprinkle with vinegar and a little summer savory. Add a teaspoonful of salt, and half teaspoonful of paprika; cook six onions for each two pounds of meat, slowly in one-fourth of a cup of butter or butter substitute. Add the cooked onions to the meat, cover tightly, and cook slowly for about two hours. The liquid may be increased just before serving by the addition of a little beef stock, or either sweet or sour cream.

Economy That Proves Correct Design

Yosemite Run Gives Conclusive Evidence of Quality
Construction and Economy of Triplex Springs

THE REMARKABLE OVERLAND VICTORY in the 355-mile Los Angeles-Yosemite Economy Run registers another triumph for scientific light weight and the easy riding Triplex Springs. The winning Overland stock touring car registered an average of 35.1 miles per gallon throughout the entire mountainous trip. This is, of course, better than average Overland mileage, but it is gratifying to drive a car whose design insures the best use of every drop of fuel.

STORIES from Here and There

Beefsteaks Cause "Hungry Mary's" Fall

CHICAGO.—Hunger caused the downfall of twelve-year-old Mary Makoleski, but for once she says she "let go." Mary was speeded on her way to the House of the Good Shepherd by Miss Mary Bartelme of the juvenile court, who felt she'd be better off there than exposed to the dangers of the wicked city and the lure of the beefsteak palaces of the West side.

"Hungry Mary" they called the child at home. It seemed she just couldn't get enough to eat. On pay days, when Papa Tony would bring home some nice tripe and onions for dinner, his little housekeeper, Mary, would seize the package and dash to the kitchen with it. But, alas, always Mary would retire to her little cot with an aching void in her midriff.

There were three other little mouths to feed and Little Mother Mary at last grew tired of her job. Then, too, Mary had aristocratic leanings. True, tripe was wonderfully filling, but, oh, those big, beautiful beefsteaks!

Papa Tony had a little hoard saved for his funeral. There was $150. One day Papa Tony's hoard was missing, and so was Mary.

She was gone for six weeks, and she had the most glorious gorge that any little girl ever had in her life. She told the court about it. "Oh, how I eat and eat!" said Mary.

At night she slept in doorways. For several nights while her distracted father was searching for her she was hiding under the steps of her own home, giggling as the foolish grown-ups tramped heavily over her head.

One day, after a beautiful and expensive meal, Mary wandered into the juvenile detention home. The matron noticed a large protuberance on Mary's skinny leg. Investigation revealed $86, the last of Papa Tony's money.

Five Peaches Are Ripe for the Plucking

EVANSTON, ILL.—Ye firm of Cupid & Co. is ready for business at 1501 Sherman avenue. That is the office of Justice of the Peace Samuel Harrison. Five north shore girls have appealed to him to find them husbands.

"And every one's a peach," the judge said, "and I reckon I ought to know. I'm seventy years old. I've lived in Evanston fifty years and for twenty-five years I've been studying humanity as a magistrature."

These five girls are the sweetest you could imagine. The trouble is this country is short of real men, the old-fashioned kind that had an honest ambition to succeed and were content to stay at one job and make a home."

The judge said he had been empowered to receive all letters that candidates might send to his five clients. He described them as follows:

No. 1—Blonde, twenty-two years old, weighs 125 pounds; wants a farmer's son, or at least one who wants to be a farmer, and who won't stay out late at night.

No. 2—Blonde, twenty years old, 135 pounds. She wants a husband who's musically inclined, because, the judge says, "she hums Irish ditties all the time and is artistic." Also she likes to keep house.

No. 3—Brunette, twenty-one years old, 120 pounds. She wants a good young business man who is determined to "get somewhere."

No. 4—Brunette, twenty-four years old, 150 pounds. Doesn't paint, powder or marcel hair, the judge explained, and added that "she caught my eye because she's pretty as a picture" and well educated.

No. 5—Blonde, twenty-four years old, 128 pounds. The judge described her eyes as "sparkling blue." She wants an American who fought overseas for Uncle Sam and didn't "succumb to the wiles of those French girls."

Collie Dog and Cigaretts, But No Divorce

PORTLAND, ORE.—"I told her she would have to choose between the dog and me. She said she had raised the collie since he was a puppy ten years ago and that if a choice was necessary she would pick the dog."

This was the complaint of Miner Swarthout in his divorce suit before Circuit Judge Tucker.

"What's more, she is an inveterate cigarette smoker," he continued. "She would smoke all the time and I couldn't break her of it."

The Swarthouts were married about eighteen months ago, but lived together only five weeks, jealousy of the dog causing the husband to leave. "She had the dog for years before she met me, had she not?" Judge Tucker asked Swarthout. The reply was in the affirmative.

"Do you smoke cigarettes?"

"Yes."

"Didn't you offer her cigarettes before you were married?"

"Yes."

"Did she take them and smoke them?"

"Sometimes."

"And you thought it was pretty cute and admired her for it, didn't you?"

"Yes, yes."

"In other words," concluded Judge Tucker, "you knew of these two things of which you complain before your marriage. You saw nothing objectionable in either of them then. You thought her smoking of cigarettes was all right and you didn't blame her for having her collie pet. You have utterly failed to show the extreme cruelty alleged in your complaint. You have no divorce cause that I can see. A divorce is denied. The case is dismissed."

Two Big Old Trees That Own Themselves

LOUISVILLE, KY.—Arkus G. has long claimed the only tree in the United States that owns itself, and made haste to register it when the American Forestry association established its "Hall of Fame for Trees."

The Georgia tree is an oak of magnificent proportions that was owned by Col. W. H. Jackson. In his old age he recorded a deed which sets forth "that the said W. H. Jackson, for and in consideration of the great affection, which he bears said tree and his desire to see it protected, has conveyed and, by these presents, does convey unto the said tree entire possession of itself, and the land within eight feet of it on all sides."

Now Olive B. Marsh, secretary of the Caney Creek community center, in Knott county, Kentucky, has registered a Kentucky sycamore that also owns itself. The deed of conveyance begins thus:

"This deed of conveyance, made and entered into by and between Alice S. G. Lloyd, trustee of the Caney Creek community center, of Knott county, and Mrs. J. W. Elliot of Boston, trustee for the "Frederick Bull" tree of Caney Creek, in Knott county, party of the second part.

Witnesseth: That for and in consideration of its shade, coolness and inspiration, and value of itself as an esthetic asset, the party of the first part hereby conveys to the party of the second part, in trust for the use and benefit of the said sycamore tree, and to itself as absolute owner, the terra firma upon which it stands. . . .

Thirty-six square feet is conveyed to the sycamore, which is ten feet in circumference three feet above the ground.

Again: "What's the Matter With Kansas?"

HUTCHINSON, KAN.—Of course everybody the country over will ask in chorus the same old question. "What's the matter with Kansas?" but the other day there was too much electricity for comfort. It's all very well to laugh over it and say, "Oh, Hutchinson's a live wire, that's all." But, just the same—

Barbed-wire fences became charged, and one set fire to dry grass and caused a prairie fire.

A dog chained to a wire clothesline set up a prolonged howling, and when the master tried to unnap the chain he was severely jolted by a shock. Balls of fire, according to cattlemen formed on the tips of the cattle's horns. A Cheyenne county ranchman reported driving a bunch of cattle through the storm at night, with the cattle furnishing a continuous display. Automobiles on highways in the western part of the state halted without explanation. Batteries in many instances were burned out and persons touching metal parts received shocks.

An electrician of Hutchinson got his automobile going as usual by letting a wire trail behind the car, which surrounded the charge.

Cooking utensils on stoves became so highly charged that housewives had to use flatiron holders or gloves to avoid a shock.

There was neither thunder nor lightning, but the electrical manifestations followed on the heels of a severe dust storm.

S. D. Flora, state meteorologist, says the immense amount of dust in the air created static electricity.

FABRIC HATS DEFY THE SUN

As THE gorgeous peacock feathers will show, Three of them are made on wire frames and one has a high straw braid foundation. The wire frames are first covered with organdie or net or other thin, sheer fabric, but to fit the brim and crown, and it may not be necessary to cover the upper brim with this foundation material. Hemstitching is used where the top and side crown pieces are joined and edges have a neat finish or very narrow row silk or straw braids may be stitched to them. Sashes of narrow ribbon or of organdie or of the same fabric as the hat, provide the trim lining. One of the hats pictured is made of white tulle and has a brim facing of navy blue braid. There is a little outline embroidery on the crown of this hat, done with navy blue embroidery silk. Two hats of honeycomb batiste, have soft edges extending beyond the edges of the frames one with a collar and bow of satin ribbon and one with a little silk embroidery on a scarf and used for its decoration. They are all white.

Three-Year-Olds in Play Togs

HERE are two outfits for busy mothers. The persons who are three, going on four or more years up to six, that will make an instant appeal to mothers. They are everyday togs—a little dress with bloomers and attractive rompers, both made with sun bleached and sturdy materials, according to the kind of wear demanded of them.

The popular gluglums in very small checks, plain chambrays, or any of the medium or lighter weight cottons used for children's play clothes—not omitting undecorated domestic—might be used for making them. As shown above, they are intended for the least strenuous frolics of little ones, for the clean sunbleached of the lawn or corduroy, but the models are good in heavier and darker cottons.

The little frock as pictured is made of white and blue printed lawn. The pretty old-fashioned dress has a straight yoke with body and skirt in one, gathered to it, the joining decorated with feather stitching. It has a round neck and short sleeves all finished with a plaited flit of white lawn. The dress has four rows of shirings at the back and front with slashes at each side. A sash of lawn slips under these slashes and this arrangement takes care of the waist line. An admirably quaint sun bonnet is edged with a crochet lace and has ties of the material. A little ribbon bow is added when this goods are used, but will be left off heavier fabrics.

Flowers in a color or white should be provided for these playtime dresses. When checked gluglums and other substantial materials are chosen the bloomers match the frock.

Plain chambray gives a good account of itself in the rompers pictured. The collar and cuffs have narrow frills of dotted swiss and this material is used for the irresponsible but pretty bonnet and its ties. A band and bow of ribbon make it a very dainty affair, less practical than its rival.

Again Leghorn Hats.

Leghorn hats are again in rather high favor for summer; but the tendency is to have a leghorn and silk combination rather than a hat entirely of the leghorn. The crown may be left to let in bits of silk, or an entire silk crown may be used to top a drooping leghorn brim.

New Style in Skirts.

The canisole skirt is the latest addition to a smart woman's wardrobe. It is a plaited model hung from a loose waistline of a canisole. Over it is worn a loose-waisted blouse which matches the skirt.

Housewife's Smocks.

Smocks are a great convenience for the housewife. They can really be used as aprons. Slipped over the afternoon dress or suit skirt and blouse they form a good protection and can be worn to the dinner table where an apron could not. Made of cotton crepe they are easily laundered and will not fade.

It's a Matter of Choice.

Chemise, belted and unbelted, basque and bouffant skirt, Greek draperies,

Life's Little JESTS

Disappointed.

"Ethel, didn't I see that young man in the parlor holding your hand last night?"

"Yes, mother."

"What was he doing that for?"

"I really don't know, mother."

"You don't know?"

"No, mother; I did think he was going to put a ring on my finger, but he didn't."

Well Educated.

Bixton—There is a man who has the distinctive art of learning two wonderful accomplishments.

Dixson—What are they, pray? He looks so common.

Bixton—I know he does, but he can press his pants as perfectly as any tailor and can smoke a 15-cent cigar with the manners of a millionaire.

Just at the Limit.

Her husband—Do you mean to say, you're actually going to wear that new evening gown? Why, they pinched a candlestick woman for less than that.

Mrs. La Mode—I should think they would. Less than this would be quite too daring.

In Hock.

"I pity the poor pawnbroker, pa."

"What for?"

"Just think of the watches he has to set back in this daylight saving business."

Mind Readers.

Professor (to students in lack of room) Can you all hear me back there? Chorus From Back Row—No, sir, Punch Bowl.

The Substitute.

"Ethel, did you put a sufficiency of saccharine substance in the pudding?"

"No, ma'am; I didn't have none on fat. I just used plain sugar."

BETWEEN GIRLS.

"She says she wishes she could see herself as others see her."

"That's just an excuse for spending a lot of time in front of a mirror."

Of Course.

Of all the queer folks we have met, in our travels round the world, The chap who poses questions is The queerest, without doubt.

The Special Ones.

"Jones' refusal to buy his wife an automobile got on her nerves."

"I suppose it got on her motor nerves."

His Status.

"My doctor tells me he cured a millionaire actor's indigestion by the use of a little sweetened water."

"Then the actor is a sugar-cured ham."

Naturally.

"That man has not a well-furnished mind."

"I suppose that is the reason he has such a vacant expression."

The Near Future.

"They must be very rich people."

"They are. They dress in deerskin and calico and have potatoes and prunes on their table every day."

The New Shopper.

"Please give me enough money for coffee, dad."

"Surely, but where are you going?"

"Shopping!"—Cartoons.

The Retort Courteous.

"I would like to give you a piece of my mind."

"So generous of you to give of your necessity and not of your abundance."

Big Game.

"Who is the man surrounded by an 'hiring crowd'?"

"A big game hunter."

"Ah! Is he just back from Africa?"

"No; from the mountains of this state. He led a posse that captured 23 moonshiners and nine stills with a total of 1,500 gallons a day."

Unsuitable.

"Look how that table has been set."

"What's the matter with it?"

"The angel cake side by side with the deviled ham."

Fate's Joke.

"Poor Susie's marriage turned out to be a tragic failure."

"How so?"

"She married a rich man old enough to be her grandfather, and the doctor has just told her he is as sound as a dollar and liable to live for twenty years."

The Two Sides.

"We have so much trouble with the help," says capital.

"We have so much trouble with the horses," says labor.

Back Giving Out?

That "bad back" is probably due to weak kidneys. It shows in constant dull, throbbing backache or sharp twinges when sleeping or lifting. You have headaches, too, dizzy spells, a tired feeling and irregular kidney action. It is usually easy to correct these early troubles, and avoid the more serious ailments by giving prompt help. Use Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands the world over. Ask your neighbor!

A Michigan Case

Mrs. J. L. Johnson, 616 S. Milwaukee St., Jackson, Mich., says: "My kidneys were in bad shape. My back would give out on me and I would be dizzy on arising in the morning. My kidneys were not acting right, and I felt tired and nervous. I got three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and used them until the trouble left me entirely!"

Hens' Behavior Caused English Youngster to Be Doubtful of Good Character of Vicinity.

Johnny recently paid his first visit to his aunt's farm in England. The little boy had not been there long before he came running to her in great excitement.

"Aunt," he exclaimed, with the air of one imparting grave news, "I don't think this is a very nice place."

"Why, what makes you think that, Johnny?" was her amused reply.

"Well, auntie, the public houses (saloons) open very early," was the startling rejoinder. "Nearly all you hens have the blue-eyes already this morning."

John Smith Named New England.

The name of New England was coined by Capt. John Smith of Pocahontas fame, one of the founders of the Virginia colony. In 1614 he explored and mapped the northern coast, then called North Virginia, and renamed it New England. The charter granted the Mayflower Pilgrims adopted the name used in Smith's map several years before.

LOCUSTS MENACE UPPER MICHIGAN

DAMAGE TO CROPS IN TRAVERSE REGION ESTIMATED AT MILLION DOLLARS.

STATE APPEALED TO FOR HELP

Fields Levelled As Though Swept By Prairie Fires According to Latest Reports.

Cadillac, Mich.—Northern Michigan is still crying for aid from the grasshopper scourge. The insect menace is rapidly becoming more acute and already $1,000,000 worth of the 1920 crop has been destroyed. Fields are being completely leveled, hedgings are being eaten as fast as the shoots show above the ground, and wheat, beans and corn are being eaten as effectively as though swept by a forest fire.

Appeals are being made to the state to get poisons into the stricken territory soon or thousands of farmers will be driven from the farms.

Two tons of white arsenic ordered from Detroit, reported shipped were located a week later still in Detroit where the express office had held the consignment, because the packages were slightly overweight. It is this red tape that must be cut, say officials of the Michigan Potato Growers' exchange, which is handling the poison orders.

Wexford county supervisors last spring appropriated $1,000 to fight the hoppers. This amount is sufficient to buy 5,000 pounds of arsenic, or sufficient to treat 15,000 acres of land, or two-thirds of a township.

It will cost $24,500 to properly cover Wexford county with grasshopper poison and the farmers of this section cannot spend that much money without state aid. The crop is doomed.

LABOR DECIDES TO FIGHT LIVING COST

A. F. OF L. PLANS TO ESTABLISH AND CONDUCT STORES ON CO-OPERATIVE PLAN.

League of Nations Indorsed

Pact Resolution Passed After Fight—U. S. Rail Ownership Also Approved.

Montreal—The American Federation of Labor, before adjournment of its annual convention here, decided it would fight "criminal profiteering" and the high cost of living by the co-operative movement. It pledged its assistance to local and central bodies by establishing and operating co-operative stores.

A levy was approved of $1 on every local union to establish a bureau of co-operation for "promoting and advancing the cause of true co-operation in the United States and Canada."

The workers recognize clearly, said the report approved by the Federation, "that if they establish and operate their own retail and wholesale stores honestly and efficiently, patronizing them loyally, they will reduce the cost of living at least to the degree that the private retail merchant and middleman have been profiteering upon them."

After a stormy session, the federation indorsed the League of Nations without reservations. The league was bitterly opposed by Irish sympathizers, who were supported by the progressive wing of the Federation.

The executive council also was instructed to consider a plan which ultimately would result in labor procuring control of a number of daily newspapers for the purpose of giving "fair representation in matters in which labor is concerned."

Government ownership with democratic operation of railroads.

Curb on profiteers and high cost of living.

Jailing of food and clothing profiteers.

Right to strike and abolition of compulsory arbitration and anti-strike legislation.

Hands off in Mexico by the United States government.

Indorsement of the Irish republic.

Right of collective bargaining.

Advances in wages wherever necessary to maintain the American standard of living.

Shorter work day, if necessary to prevent unemployment.

CHAPTER XIV—Continued.

"I have," she answered, looking at him steadily in the eye, but speaking with a slight tremor in her tones. "I wondered to what it might be due. Was it because she feared the consequences of the revelation as to her identity, or was it that she feared she might be trapped by his questions?"

"Now tell me, Mrs. Moore," he shot at her explosively, "who really murdered Daisy Lutan?"

"Henry Kent," she answered quickly, before the district attorney had time to stop her.

"What's this?" exclaimed the judge. "What did you say?"

"Object! object!" vociferated the district attorney, striving in vain to catch the attention of the judge presiding. McGregor, apparently well satisfied with the results of his question, stood there, smiling assurance at me.

"Young woman," directed the judge, "will you kindly repeat your last statement—louder. Who did you say killed Daisy Lutan?"

The girl turned to face the judge. Her lips were set as if she had determined to carry out some fixed plan, cost what it might.

"Daisy Lutan," she repeated, "was murdered by Henry Kent, who owns the Granddeck. He's really Orville Granders, the bank president who got away with eight hundred thousand dollars and was sent up for seventeen years."

There was a commotion in the rear of the courtroom. A dapper little old gentleman with neatly trimmed white whiskers rose hastily and made a dash for the door. Gorman, who had been sitting behind him, sprang after him and pinioned him by the arm:

"Nothing doing, Granders. I've got you."

Wick, sitting up near the counsel table, at the same time showed evidence that he, too, was contemplating hasty flight, but a husky chap whom I suspected of being one of Gorman's aides, seized him, too.

"Your honor," cried my counsel, "I demand the issuance of warrants at once for Orville Granders, alias Henry Kent, and his confederate, James Wilson, alias James Wick, and 'Stuffy Jim' on the charge of having murdered Daisy Lutan and Rufus Gaston. I further urge the immediate release of my client, Mr. Spalding Nelson, in my custody. Testimony that we already have obtained will establish that he was an innocent victim of the dastardly plots of these two ex-criminals."

The reaction that came from this sudden clearing of my name left me in a puzzled daze from which I hardly recovered until late that evening, when, once more free, I found myself in the Gaston apartment. Granders, his tool, Wick, and practically every employee of the Granddeck were under arrest, and warrants were out for other members of the band whose identity had been revealed by the former telephone girl.

And there in the apartment with me were my mother, Gorman, McGregor—and to my surprise and delight, Barbara Bradford. After her sister's wedding, it appeared, Barbara's mother had come away for a brief rest, leaving her alone in the apartment with the servants. She had welcomed the opportunity to work undisturbed on the mystery that had landed me behind the bars. Thinking that at Rufus Gaston's funeral she might pick up some clue that would be of service in unravelling the tangled skein that held her and me together, she had gone thither, and seeing my mother there, and suspecting at once who she might be, had introduced herself. Quickly they had become good friends and she it was who had informed my mother of my plight.

Present also with us, despite the lateness of the hour, was the district attorney and two of his aides, and Nellie Kelly, or as she much preferred to be called, Mrs. Moore. The girl was technically a prisoner, but her services in bringing the real criminals to book had been so exceptional that she had been released on her own recognizance. Hither she had been brought that the district attorney might check up with her the marvelous tale of criminal conspiracy that she had unfolded to my counsel in the brief recess of the court that day.

Orville Granders, it appeared, had been the master-mind that had directed all the plotting. A score of years before he had been president of one of the metropolis' biggest banks. He had been discovered to have embezzled nearly a million dollars. He had been tried and sentenced to seventeen years' imprisonment, but no one ever had been able to find what he had done with the money, so safely had he hidden it away.

In his long years in prison, associating daily with criminals of the worst sort, and listening to their plans for further crime on their release, his own criminal instincts, already developed, had grown stronger, and he had spent his time planning a new system of crime of which he was to be the head, using as his confederates certain ex-convicts with whom he had become acquainted in prison. When he had been released he had slipped quietly away to the West and lived in close retirement until he had been forgotten. The white whiskers he had grown so changed his appearance, too, that he had little fear of being recognized. Recovering such part of the stolen money as was left to him, he had come to New York in the guise of a prosperous Western investor and, purchasing a plot of land, had erected the Granddeck apartments, designed for the occupancy of the wealthiest class of tenants.

In this building, sitting like a little white spider in his web, he planned to prey secretly on all who came to live there. Every attendant in the building was either a criminal or an associate of criminals, reporting to him daily all that went on, and obeying his orders implicitly. A special switchboard in his apartment enabled him to listen in at will on all telephone conversations that went on. Every letter delivered at the Granddeck went through his hands before reaching the tenants. For every wall safe in the building he held a master combination and his pass-key would unlock every door there was. And in addition to all this—

HE HAD BUILT A SECRET PASSAGEWAY.

We found it that night and explored it, familiarizing ourselves with all its exits, greatly to the amazement and confounding of Gorman. Connecting with the service elevator by a masked opening, it ran along the hall of each apartment, with entrances concealed in wall panels. It enabled Granders to wander at will through the apartments at night, hearing mysterious notes to terrify his tenants, prying into the secrets hidden in their wall safes, listening when he chose to their most private conversations, examining the contents of their pockets. As he had planned from the beginning, he gained in this way much information that he was able to utilize to his financial profit without arousing suspicion. He had discovered, Mrs. Moore said, secret stock market movements one of his tenants was planning and had made a small fortune out of the advance information. Several injudicious women he had successfully blackmailed, turning over to agents who never came near the Granddeck the secrets he learned from letters he opened and telephone conversations he had listened to.

In the case of Rufus Gaston, he had plotted to steal the Gaston pearls. Mrs. Moore explained, first terrifying the old couple into leaving the apartment, the whippersnapper that had been heard coming of course from the secret passageway.

"But I can't understand," I said, "why, after he had once got hold of the pearls in Mr. Gaston's absence, he should have restored them to their hiding place."

"He had a duplicate made of jony pearls," explained Mrs. Moore. "It was part of his plan not to have any of the tenants discover the thefts for a long time after they occurred."

"If he was so cautious," said the district attorney, "I am puzzled as to why he killed Miss Lutan and Mr. Gaston. He must have realized that both murders would be thoroughly investigated."

"Both were accidents, so to speak," the girl explained. "Each of them surprised him in their apartment, and he had to kill them to make his getaway. I suppose he had been roaming around so much he had got careless."

"How about the revolver?" asked Gorman. "How did he come to plant it in Nelson's room?"

"He was puzzled by Mr. Nelson butting in on the Bradford case, and it made him sore. I heard him and Wick talking about it one day, and he said that he'd teach Mr. Nelson not to interfere. How?" asked Wick. "I'll frame him for the goat if anything happens!"

"And was it he who had me discharged from my office?" I asked, eagerly.

"Sure it was. He wrote a note on Mr. Gaston's stationery saying that you had forced a check after he had befriended you. He wrote in the letter that he was not going to prosecute you because of your mother, but that he felt that you were unworthy of employment anywhere."

"I believe," said the district attorney, "that that covers everything up, except for one thing—why, Mrs. Moore, did you aid him and Wick in all those crimes?"

"He promised that if I would help him he would get Eddie out," she cried. "I was desperate. I'd do anything to get my husband back."

Gorman and the district attorney exchanged meaning glances. While nothing more was said, I felt sure as they departed that both were thinking that this brave young woman who had solved the mystery for them certainly deserved some reward, and I think we all realized that the only reward life ever could hold for her was the freedom of her husband.

He Had Built a Secret Passageway.

Presently they went and left us alone, Gorman, my mother, Barbara, and I.

"There are still two things I can't understand," I said, as we sat talking it over. "The first is—and I turned to Barbara—"what was your sister doing in this apartment on the night of the first murder? When I came up from the Lutan apartment I caught her just coming out of my door. I could not help wondering if they had made her plant the revolver."

Barbara started up, blushing. "Oh, no," she cried. "It was nothing like that. You remember a few moments before you and I had been in your room, looking at the secret passageway. Claire just then had come into my room looking for me. She was puzzled by my absence, and the only solution that came to her was that I must be in your room. Alarmed at what she considered my imprudence, she had slipped out into the hall, and seeing your door open, had investigated. Of course she did not find me, for I had returned by way of the window ledge. She told me about it the night before she was married. I don't wonder, though, that you suspected her."

"I didn't suspect her," I cried. "I just wondered what she had been doing there."

"That's right," said Gorman. "He wouldn't believe for a minute that she had had anything to do with it."

"But what puzzles me most," I went on, "is how you ever persuaded the telephone girl to give Granders away. It must have been done after she had given her first testimony. How did it happen that she changed so suddenly over to our side?"

As I looked from one to the other for an explanation, Gorman burst out laughing.

"You'll have to ask Miss Bradford about that," he said. "She did it all."

I turned again to look at Barbara, expecting her to speak, but she merely blushed and was silent.

"Go on, tell me," I urged her. "Well," she said hesitatingly, "as I heard her testifying, I had an inspiration. I heard her say that she loved her husband, and that she did not care

"If Only I Had Something to Offer You Besides My Love!"

who knew it—and—and—and—all at once I realized that love was the strongest influence in the world, so I had Mr. McGregor ask for an adjournment, and then—"

She stopped in confusion, the rosy blushes once more mantling her cheeks.

"Go on," I insisted. "I can't tell it," she cried. "You must tell it. I have a right to know it. What did you do?"

"I managed to see her alone," she hesitated. "What did you say to her?" I demanded.

"I just told her," she faltered, lowering her eyes as she spoke, "that—that I loved you just as much as she loved her husband, and I begged her for love's sake not to help send you to the chair, and she broke down and told everything."

"Oh, Barbara, my Barbara!" I cried, springing up and clasping her in my arms. "If only I had something to offer you besides my love!"

"I wouldn't worry about that just now, Spalding," interrupted my mother's voice. "They found your grandmother's will today. He made you his sole heir."

But Barbara and I hardly heeded her good news. We were too busy telling each other the world-old story. [THE END]

HOLD CONVERSE IN JUNGLE

Expert Asserts That All Wild Animals Have Method of Communication With Each Other.

If the chimpanzees possess the most extensive and varied vocabulary—and Garner, who knew the sound and meaning of about a hundred monkey words, said they do—baboons have the crudest. Dr. Pittman says that those in the Bronx park collection express their emotions with a roaring bark, a faint chattering, and, when frightened, a wild scream.

"But all animal life has some method of communication," says Dr. Pittman. "In some cases it isn't vocal, but it satisfies the same need. When a lion is lonesome he puts his head close to the ground and rours. Possibly he knows the ground acts as a sounding board. With a different cadence this roar becomes a challenge, and other males take it up until the jungle reverberates with their din."

"Another roar with a different intensity is answered only by females. The lioness will listen to fix the direction from which his roar comes and will move toward him. Then she will roar, and he will move, and finally they meet."—Exchange.

Formation of Asbestos.

Asbestos is found in fissures of rock and it is believed that, when the rock was forming and still hot, water penetrated the fissures, widened them and dissolved some of the silica and magnesia. On drying, these crystallized as a hydrated silicate of magnesia, forming threadlike crystals building up from opposite walls of the fissure and meeting in the middle.

Senatorial Ambition.

"The height of my ambition," remarked Senator Sorghum, "is to walk into a moving picture theater and discover that my portrait is getting as much applause as that of a regular film star."

Mean Comment.

Dick: You have to know that girl well to appreciate what she is worth. Bob: I don't doubt it; you couldn't take her on her face value.

EXPECTS TO CATCH 1,000 GAMES

Ray Schalk, Star Backstop of the Champion White Sox.

Ray Schalk, the crack catcher of the White Sox, American league champions, expects to complete his 1,000th major league game before the summer is over. The plucky little backstop now is within a few games of that mark. This record has been made in less than eight years.

Schalk is regarded as the best catcher in the majors, his closest rival being Bill Killefer of the Chicago Cubs and Steve O'Neill of the Cleveland Indians. Few big league catchers have reached the 1,000 mark.

JOIE RAY BELIEVED TO BE BEST RUNNER

Coaches Say Little Star Has Never Been Extended.

Close Followers of Amateur Athletics Think He Will Be Invincible in Olympic Games Over Favorite Distances.

When Joie Ray of the Illinois Athletic club, America's premier distance runner, won the half-mile and two-mile runs in the Central A. A. U. senior indoor track and field championships close followers of amateur athletics believe he will be invincible in the Olympic games over his favorite distances.

Although Ray did not meet any runners of note, the fact remains that some of Ray's reserve was called upon to run three races in one night. His best performance was in the mile, which he covered in 4:29 on a track with unbanked turns. The time in the other races was slow, as Joie was not pushed in either.

Speculation is rife among coaches and trainers as to what Ray will do when he meets a runner of his own speed and endurance. Many contend Ray has never been extended and there is no telling how fast he can reel off a mile if he has to step every yard of the distance.

There is no runner on the American athletic horizon who has a chance to beat Ray this year, but when the American starts his favorite races at Antwerp the situation will be different. Ray knows the weaknesses of America's best runners, while he is not familiar with the racing of Europe's best men. It is the consensus of opinion of most coaches that Ray will be carried along at such a fast clip in his races that he will need all the reserve he can store up. Some of these men contend that a mistake is being made in making the little star race so much.

Like the proverbial brook, A. Mon-teverde of Morristown runs on forever. He is 47 years old and is still an active marathoner in the A. A. U. ranks.

CUBA'S DERBY NEXT SEASON FIRST SACKERS IN NATIONAL

Classic to Be Run at Oriental Park, Havana, Will Be Worth $20,000—Value Doubled.

Next year the Cuban Derby, which will be run for the second time at Oriental Park, Havana, will be worth $20,000, its value having been doubled. The Cuba-American Jockey club distributed nearly $500,000 among the successful horsemen during the recent winter meeting, and will go higher. Herron, who won the Derby on the last day in a hard drive from Blue Wrack, was purchased before the race for $100,000 by Senor Alvarez from E. T. Baxter. Blue Wrack, which might have won with a better ride, bore the colors of Senor Diaz, another popular Cuban sportsman.

Zeb's Good Cub.

Manager Mitchell is convinced he drove a good bargain when he acquired Zeb Terry, Pacific coast infielder, to be ready to fill Herzog's job if the Chicago ace can't stand the strain.

EDDIE ROUSH USES OLD BATS

War Clubs Used by Cincinnati Outfielder in Driving Out Hits Are Twenty-Two Years Old.

It is said that Eddie Roush, the Cincinnati outfielder, has two baseball bats that are twenty-two years old. The old bickory sticks were bought by Roush when he played on amateur teams during his youthful days. Whenever the Reds need a timely hit and it is Roush's good fortune to be at bat he always relies upon one of his cherished weapons. Roush prizes these bats so highly that he declines to loan them to his clubmates.

CURVE BALL COMING BACK

"I'd like to be a young pitcher. Just coming up, with a curve ball," says Hank O'Day. "Mark what I say, the curve ball pitcher will be back in all his old power within three years by the stopping of freak deliveries. There are not enough fast ball pitchers who are effective against great batters."

GIANTS' FRENZIED OFFER

The New York Giants recently made an offer of $150,000 to the Cincinnati Reds for Heinie Grob, captain and star third baseman of the world's champions. Garry Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati club, reported the offer.

DIAMOND NOTES

Paddy Livingston's stay with the Red Sox was brief.

Pat Moran is having trouble getting his "best pitching stuff in the league" straightened away.

Grover Lowdermilk, Chicago White Sox pitcher, has been released to the Minneapolis A. A. club.

Kansas City is making another stab at bolstering its outfield by buying Joe Letter from the Chicago Nationals.

Nearly every member of the Cleveland club is a heavy peanut eater. Other clubs should try the nut diet.

The latest outbreak of the rumor mongers is to have James J. Callahan buying the Boston Braves.

Walter Johnson is getting his bumping too often for the peace of mind of Clark Griffith and Washington fans.

The rumor that Jack Coombs might supplant Hugh Jennings as manager of the Tigers is listed in Detroit as foolish.

One of the saying graces of the Oakland team is Hack Miller, who is back on the job and hitting them a mile as usual.

The Boston Red Sox, having let out all of their star players, are now in a position to win the pennant in the American league.

To make room for his new pitching material Manager Hendricks of the Hoosiers sold Karl Adams to Tulsa of the Western league.

Walter Schmidt being on the job, the Pirates had no further use for Nig Clarke and the veteran catcher was given his release.

Max Flack is the bright star of the Chicago Cubs these days and is having a big season to date, hitting, fielding and base running.

Ollie O'Mara is trying his best to prove what Jack Hendricks said of him—that he's the best ball player in the American association.

Umpire Ollie Chill is so small that when he stands behind Truck Hannah he can't see as much of the game as the kids in the center field bleachers.

Babe Adams of the Pirates went 33 innings before he gave a free pass this year. And he gave his first one to a pitcher, Dutch Ruether of the Reds.

Judging from the work he has been doing for Rochester, Virgil Barnes is a better pitcher than his brother, Jess, of the New York Giants.

Tom Longboat, former long distance running champion, has applied to the Canadian soldiers' settlement board for a grant of land to take up farming.

Owner Ebbetts of the Dodgers is thinking of raking off medals commemorating these 53 innings of baseball played by his team in three days.

Mr. Doole P. Pastert, the rejuvenated gardener, continues to grab off his daily base hits. The sun is shining brightly for the veteran, and each afternoon is perfect.

Fred Toney is custodian of the Texas wildcat, the Giants' mascot. Toney has a trained bear at his home in Tennessee, and McGraw thinks he is qualified to tame the wildcat.

Joe Harris, the first sacker, so badly needed by the Indians to help the veteran Doc Johnston take care of the initial bag, is with the Franklin team in the Pennsylvania Steel league.

Sacramento, Cal., with a population of 65,000, holds a record for baseball activity, winter and summer. There are 21 teams playing twilight baseball now.

Carl East is one of those pitchers who helps win his own games by batting in runs. He already has several home runs to his credit at Wichita.

Several major league clubs are keeping scouts on the trail of Ernie Koob and it looks like the southpaw will return to the majors. He recently hurled a no-hit game against Kansas City.

Mike McNally is going so good that Barrow apparently does not dare to disturb the present arrangement of his infield, even with such another brilliant performer as Oscar Vitt available.

The Rockford club is in the market for a first baseman, so that Art Smith, who has been playing the bag, can return to pitching.

"Red" Torkelson, pitcher, has been stationed in the outfield by Manager Dobbs of the Pelelans. "Red" hits too well to be a pitcher. He taps the ball at a 300 clip.

Last year the Cincinnati Reds couldn't get runs behind Jimmy Ring and he had to pitch a shutout to win. This spring the Reds have generally had great batting bees when Ring was pitching for them.

The pitcher who uses the spitball this year evidently figures it is his last time on earth and he might as well keep on adding while Rome burns, getting what satisfaction he can out of the music he makes.

The Birmingham club has secured Meeks, young outfielder from Louisville. His name is so much like that of Harry Meeks of famous memory that the Birmingham fans are expecting him to be a great swatter.

DAIRY

CHANGING COWS TO PASTURE

Caution Must Be Observed to Avoid Drop in Flow of Milk—Reduce Grain Gradually.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Farmers welcome the season when dairy cattle can be turned on pasture, as they feel that the heavy expense of winter feeding is over, and expect that during the late spring and early summer months the cows will reach their maximum flow of milk at a minimum cost. This is true within certain limits, but caution must be observed in making the change from dry feed to pasture conditions. The change should not be made too early in the spring, nor too abruptly, especially in the case of cows that are producing a relatively high flow of milk and that have been fed liberally during the winter. Unless the change is made gradually there will be a decided drop in the flow of milk.

Pasture grasses in the early spring are immature and contain a high percentage of water and but a small amount of dry matter. This makes it physically impossible for cows producing a large amount of milk to eat enough of such grass to supply the necessary amount of nutrients. The cows should be allowed on pasture only a few hours a day and the grain ration should be reduced gradually.

After the change has been made cows which are producing only an average amount of milk and lactation will find a sufficient supply of feed on good pasture. High producers, however, will require some grain throughout the season. While direct results may not show immediately it is the general consensus of opinion that cows are brought to a better body condition and are likely to maintain their flow of milk longer during the balance of the lactation period if they receive some grain. Three to five pounds daily of grain, such as a mixture of oats, bran, and corn or barley, may be used to supplement pasture.

Records of cow testing associations go to show that it is the well fed cow that returns the greatest profit. "It would be advisable often for the man who is milking ten cows to sell two of them and give all the feed to the rest," says J. B. Fitch, head of the dairy department at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

"It requires a long time for some cattle owners to realize that it is profitable to feed a cow well. It is a fact, that the average cow requires one half of her ration to maintain her body and that only the part of the ration above that required for her maintenance can go into the production of milk, as the cow's share is taken out of the ration first.

"It is obvious that, after supplying a cow with her maintenance, not to give her all the feed she will use in producing milk would be an unprofitable practice."

DAIRY COWS RELISH SILAGE

Not a Complete Feed Because of Its Bulk, Moisture and Lack of Mineral Matter.

Silage has been found to be particularly well adapted to the feeding of dairy cattle, but it is not a complete feed because of its bulk, its high moisture content and its lack of protein and mineral matter. In combination with silage one should feed some alfalfa or clover hay and in addition a well-balanced grain ration.

THRIFTY GROWTH OF HEIFERS

Daily Average Gain of Young Animal Should Be Close to One Pound Up to Calving Time.

If fed so as to induce a thrifty growth, yet not produce fat, dairy heifers will gain on an average close to one pound daily from the age of six months up to two years or calving time.

Winter Care of Calves.

Dairy calves should be given proper care and attention during the winter months to insure normal development.

Keep Good Dairy Cows.

The country needs them and they can be kept at a profit.

Greatest Expense Item.

Feed is the greatest item of expense in producing milk, and too often cows are underfed.

LIGHTNING KILLS FIVE IN DETROIT

SEVERE ELECTRICAL STORM TAKES HEAVY TOLL OF LIVES IN ONE DAY.

FOUR ARE KILLED BY ONE SOLT
 High School Ball Players, Seeking Refuge From Heavy Rain, Stricken Under Tree.

Detroit.—A severe electrical storm that swept the city last Thursday killed 5 persons and injured 13 others.

One bolt of lightning struck down the baseball team of Northeastern high school in Pingree park, instantly killing four of the boys and injuring six other players and youthful spectators. A woman was fatally struck near her home. She died shortly afterward. Three men, two at Belle Isle and one in the city, were stricken by the deadly current. They will recover.

The dead were:
 Killed by lightning in Pingree park, Charles Ryecavage, 17 years old, 563 Grandy avenue; Anthony P. Schornack, 17 years old, 985 Chase street; Frank Owydyk, 19 years old, 737 Theodore street; Edward Skrzycki, 19 years old, 964 Russell street.

Killed on street: Mrs. Dora Pettich, 46 years old, Dequindre street and Nine-mile road.

The tragedy in Pingree park happened near Joyce field, the baseball ground.

The boys had sought shelter under an Elm tree when the first heavy drops of rain started to fall about 5 o'clock. They were standing under it when the tree was struck by the lightning splintering the huge trunk. They had gone to Pingree park to play a final game with Eastern high, one of a series of elimination contests for the championship.

As soon as the rain became a down-pour, the boys sought shelter under a elm tree. Several spectators, too, crowded under the tree, but the fact that they were on the edge of the circle perhaps saved their lives.

According to Wilmer Lamson, Jr., 246 East Warren avenue, who was sitting under the tree, the boys were jostling about the storm when a terrific flash of lightning felled the group.

When Lamson recovered the others were lying on the ground. They were found to be dead at Receiving Hospital.

All four of the dead boys were popular at school. Skrzycki was captain of the 1919-1920 basketball team, and a foot ball and base ball player. Owydyk also played on the basketball and foot ball teams. Ryecavage, who with Schornack was a senior, was business manager of the school paper.

Mrs. Pettich, also a victim of the storm, was but a short distance from her home, toward which she was hurrying, when there was a heavy thunder clap, a blinding flash and she fell to the ground. Neighbors saw that she made no effort to get up and went to her aid. She was carried home, where she died shortly after.

A. F. OF L TAKES IN NEGROES

Colored Workers Given Full Memberships in Labor Federation.

Montreal.—The American Federation of Labor in its annual convention here wiped out the "color-line" and warned its affiliated international unions that negro workers must be given full and equal membership with white men.

The federation's action came at the end of a stormy session, which nearly resulted in a "race war" between delegates from the southern states and the negroes and their sympathizers.

Rejecting the recommendation of its organization committee the federation for the first time in history threatened the autonomy of an affiliated union by requesting the brotherhood of railway clerks to give the negro freight handlers, express and station employees full membership and eliminate from its constitution the words, "white only."

G. O. P. FORGETS IRISH PLANK

Fight of Irish Sympathizers Fails to Impress Platform Framers.

Chicago.—The Republican platform omitted all reference to Ireland. Planks proposed by Irish sympathizers were lost before the resolutions sub-committee and not pressed in the full committee or convention.

The woman suffrage plank "earnestly hopes" Republican states which have not yet ratified the suffrage amendment will do so. It was a substitute for a clause calling upon the governors or states not having ratified to summon their legislatures in extra session to ratify the amendment.

Louisiana Senate Defeats Suffrage

Baton Rouge, La.—The resolution providing for ratification of the federal suffrage amendment was defeated in the senate of the general assembly of Louisiana last week by a vote of 21 to 19. This action of the senate does not mean the definite defeat of suffrage in the Louisiana legislature as it is not yet in session. The senate is now adjourned but it is expected that it will pass the amendment when it meets.

SEVENTY YEARS OLD, DRIVES 22,000 MILES.

Mrs. Wm. Upton on Cross Country Tour Makes Own Adjustments.

On her return trip, Mrs. William Upton, the seventy year old woman, who alone drove a Ford runabout from San Francisco to New York City visited the Ford Motor Company's main office. She was introduced to the officials of the Company, was photographed, held in her hand a Ford check worth two figures of millions, recounted the experiences she had encountered on her trip and before leaving made arrangements for securing a new Ford car immediately upon her return to her home in Bakerfield, California.

Mrs. Upton has already driven her present Ford more than 22,000 miles, 7,000 of which were driven since she left San Francisco May 11th, the longest day's drive being 160 miles. At Springfield, Illinois, Mrs. Upton's plan, she plans to dispose of the car and after visiting her many friends there, will return home via rail.

When commenting on her trip, she said that in making the drive from the Atlantic to the Pacific, it had not been her purpose to follow a direct line of travel, but to visit the most cities and places of interest. She visited the White House, spent several days in the National Capitol, drove to Mount Vernon, visited the site of the Battle of Gettysburg, and then after touring to some of the Atlantic Coast Cities, made her way to New York.

She experienced practically no trouble with her car, although she pointed out the fact that she understands the Ford motor and made her own adjustments. Before leaving the Ford Company, Mrs. Upton expressed the hope that her next Ford, probably another runabout, will be equipped with a Ford starter.

WORN NERVES.

Nervous troubles, with backache, dizzy spells, queer pains and irregular kidneys, give reason to suspect kidney weakness and to try the remedy that has helped your neighbors. Ask your neighbor.

Mrs. W. S. Chalker, Grayling, says: "My back ached and when I stooped over I was in constant misery. If I did the least bit of work sharp pains used to hurt me and toward the end of the day I could often feel my back weaken. The next morning my back would feel stiff and sore. I became nervous and irritable. I was often dizzy headed and couldn't rest well at night. My kidneys were weak and I felt run down. I saw in the paper how Doan's Kidney pills were helping others so I decided to give them a trial. A few boxes which I bought at Lewis' Drug Store cured me."
